

saurians

I go through my time a visitor welcoming you my guest: make yourself home for as long as you like. your destination is unknown to me and so is mine. all I know: they are not alike such united by joy and enjoyment alone one face can sink deep into another timeless. happiness-bound solely. neither breath nor wrath thus shuts one's eye. where's no beginning, no end threatens there. ah! aren't we saurians solitary steaming through wide open fields unruly in lust and betrayal. and willingly chained and loving and shameless, autonomous and alone in the end